CARL TAYLOR LAW: FIRM NEWS

A Note from Carl

Since opening my solo practice in Hunterdon County in November 2017 there have been many exciting developments. As we head into 2019 such positive developments are accelerating. In the past few months:

* We have moved to spacious new office space (stop in sometime to see the new space, say "hi" or meet our saltwater fish office "pets").

* Local resident and recent graduate of Pittsburgh University (with a Masters Degree in Law) Andrew Russano has joined our team to assist with paralegal and marketing.

*Local resident Dawn Augustine (who also holds a Masters Degree) will commence working with us as a legal assistant and office manager after retiring after years working as a local court administrator.

2019 TAX CODE CHANGES IMPACT ALIMONY TAX DEDUCTIONS AND MORE - LEGAL UPDATES AND NEWS

Carl Taylor, Esq.

Tax Code Change Impacts Future Alimony Awards

As those divorced prior to January 1, 2019 know, alimony has always been taxable to the recipient and tax deductible to the payer.

This changed as part of the most recent federal tax code changes.

Now, alimony will no longer be a taxable event. That means that in 2019 and moving forward all future divorces finalized will have to be negotiated differently to tax-affect alimony.

This will not make a difference for the treatment of alimony for all those divorced prior to January 1, 2019.

Carl Taylor Law Website Features More Information, Podcast, Interactive Features

One of our core beliefs is that those facing important family law issues want to understand the process and to be informed about the law and procedure for their case.

To that end, our firm website www.mynjdivorcelawyer.com is a resource with hundreds of blog posts and articles, links to my published articles in national and state family law publications, and e-books I have written on the subject of divorce and family law.

To make the site more interactive, we have recently started a podcast, uploaded videos, and implemented social media and text features. Go to the site or our facebook page www.facebook.com/carltaylorlawllc to learn more.

Our most recent podcast is on the interesting subject of law enforcement divorces.

FROM ALL OF US AT CARL TAYLOR LAW, LLC WE HOPE YOU AND YOUR FAMILY ENJOYED A HAPPY AND HEALTHY HOLIDAY SEASON AND THAT YOUR 2019 WILL BE A SPECIAL YEAR FOR YOU.
